Terminology

Unaccompanied: Riders above the posted height can ride unaccompanied by a companion. Each rider under the stated height must ride with a companion capable of ensuring the child's compliance with all safety rules.

Companion: Someone of the posted height who can accompany another rider who is under the posted height and can ensure that the smaller rider complies with safety rules.

Minimum: All riders must be at least this tall, even if accompanied by a companion.

Ride Policies

Storybook Land rides are family rides and are suitable for children and adults. All rides have height restrictions and/or limitations. Be sure to check posted height and safety restrictions at each attraction. Ride and attraction requirements are determined by ride dynamics, the restraint system used, recommendations made by the manufacturer, and by the State of New Jersey Department of Community Affairs. Ride information and restrictions are posted at each location. Please supervise children at all times. Ride guidelines and height requirement are subject to change without notice.

The New Jersey State Ride Safety Act requires Storybook Land to post same and laws are strictly enforced. Some rides may not be for everyone. Those with heart or back problems, recent surgery, or pregnancy should exercise caution. Although we will try to accommodate riders with special needs, some rides may not be appropriate for everyone. Persons with special needs must have their own helper.

In the event of inclement weather or mechanical difficulty, rides may close.

Proper attire is required for all guests. No vulgar or suggestive writing on clothes. Loose shoes such as flip-flops must be removed for Tick-Tock Clock Drop and Beanstalk Bounce. Guests are required to wear shoes and shirts at all times (except in the Storybook Seaport.) No bathing suits on rides. Guests are required to change into dry clothes after visiting the Storybook Seaport.

Unlimited Ride Advisory

Storybook Land is happy to offer Unlimited Rides with the pay-one-price Park Admission. If a guest wishes to experience a ride consecutively, please show courtesy for other guests in queue by exiting the ride and re-entering. If no guests are in queue, riders may remain on the ride. However, please be advised that continuous, repetitive riding, with no breaks in between, may not be in a guest's best health interest. Storybook Land suggests that all riders take a 10 minute break after experiencing a ride three (3) consecutive times. It is the responsibility of the park guest to read and obey all posted warnings at each ride, and to cooperate with Storybook Land Ride Personnel and Management to ensure 'Safe Fun' for all guests. As always, the responsibility of supervising children (those under the age of 18 years) both on and off rides lies within the parent, guardian, or chaperone. Please supervise children at all times.

How to Measure Height Properly

The proper protocol for measuring height is as follows:

- Stand straight, with feet flat, heels and back against the measuring board
 - Keep head straight, chin down
 - Measure to the top of the head, not hair
 - Top of the head must be touching proper height on the measuring board and/or height stick
 - All measurements are non-negotiable
 - Patrons wearing shoes with soles higher than 3 inches must remove shoes when being measured
- Please understand that height restrictions are in place due to the requirements and recommendations by the Ride Manufacturer and the New Jersey State Department of Community Affairs.
